HAPPY NEW YEAR

The new calendar is bright and fresh—and a little bit frightening. Before its last date has been passed, a great many things can happen. That is why people consider it thoughtful to wish aloud that their friends may find it a happy New Year. Not that the old one may not have been happy, but because man has learned from experience that life, death, the making and unmaking of nations and the destiny of races all lie within the short space of a year. Even given thoughtlessly, as it usually is, the New Year's greeting bears a far-reaching implication.

To the man whose primary interest is his business, Happy New Year gives voice to his hope that he may prosper as never before and that he may find the health and interest to keep his business running at its highest efficiency.

To the man whose interest is his home, Happy New Year is expanded to mean his family. He hopes they will be healthy, successful and that the abundance of home life may be enriched by them constantly.

To the man whose interests are in sports, Happy New Year will be accepted as a wish for further success. So it goes. It is each man to his tastes. A million kinds of happiness are essential to the contentment of a group.

Happy New Year, then to you and you and you. May you keep what you cherish, find what you seek and develop that which interests you.

50,000 MORE EVERY DAY.

Statisticians of the League of Nations have figured out that the population of the earth is enriched by 50,000 new lives. In other words, 150,000 people are being born every day while only 100,000 are dying each day. It is a net increase of 50,000 people every minute of the 24 hours.

Automatically, the eternal question, "how many inhabitants can the earth support?" is elicited by the information. Particularly in the United States, preparing to bar its doors to further immigration, is the question likely to be asked, the answer is as vague as any; it would be so were the rate of increase to be 150,000 a day.

Centuries ago thinking men speculated on the possibility that the race would perish if it increased too rapidly. Malthus, an English political economist, propounded the theory that food supplies would serve as a check on population, always preventing it from becoming much larger but as yet facts have failed to prove the theory. Curiously, at the moment when science is exerting its knowledge to prolong the span of human life and decrease the death rate, the greatest anxiety is caused by overproduction of necessities, not underproduction.

The problem is one of distribution. Every productive area is engaged in furnishing more food than the demand makes profitable.

The findings of the League of Nations statisticians call attention to the rapid development of the continents hitherto considered backward. The eastern hemisphere is now a vexatious while strolling: Who remembers when people held their breath passing a house that had a contagious disease sign? The inside of the Chrysler building looks like salami. I like that song lyric: "Just a cheerful little carful of the well known I love you."

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—Thoughts

Bertie Braley, a Madison, Wis. boy, who made good in the city. A pocket watch running in a bowl of water. Not enough meringue on New York's lemon pies. There's an exemplar of the new feminine freedom—a lady in spats. Ina Claire has a California tan.

Midgets are always nattily attired. W. G. Shephard, a great reporter. Wish I could hear Nora Bayes sing "Shine on Harvest Moon" again. Somebody should star Patsy Kelly. Gilbert Miller looks like Lord Birkhead. The long and short of it—Pammy Brice and Billy Rose. To Pami Whitman: Come on home.

Who remembers when a wish was not a yen? They say Lindbergh can go for a chocolate malted milk. Moss and Fontaine are about the only ballroom dancers left. A few more weeks and another birthday. I can never remember the meaning of fata morgana. Mina Leedom.

Big Bill Edwards is reputed a marvelous dancer. What's become of the bloods who used to wear gloves in upper coat pocket? Nothing looks so frisky as a white poodle after a bath. Nobody to me expresses the languor of beauty like Mrs. Irving Berlin.

What happened to Dolores, the Ziegfeld show girl? Who learned to walk that way balancing heavy books upon her head. Shuddery to think of the unsolvable murders in this town. And the unspeakable graft. Anyway it soft-pedaled stage cracks about Chicago.

A drum beats. And the thin note of a life—but its only the ballyhoo for a movie. Everywhere sham. Fake antique shops, double-crossers, ship scuttlers and cut-throats. Still life is pretty grand. And I wouldn't be this way if I hadn't stuffed myself with sausage for breakfast.

Vagrant thought: I have never yet visited a town where they had no sidewalks that it didn't pour down rain.

Eddie Cantor discovers one business that will show a profit for the fiscal year—the manufacturing of red ink.

Mr. Marquis with his original "Who's Who" upset a cart of apples. Everyday notables are solicited for data on new variants of the idea—"Who's Who on Park Avenue," "Who's Who Below 14th street," "Who's Who in Wall Street," "Who's Who in Hollywood" and to top it all today came a questionnaire from a "Who's Who on the Ohio River."

As a minor trailer of sartorial hoopla nothing to my notion is so utterly don't carish as a huge, belted, canary colored camel's hair coat with enormous patch pockets. Touched off with a white muffer it's the last gasp.

He is the pronounced molar type greeting you with: "Lo, young fruit!" And also taps cigarette ends on his wrist, stops now and then to lift his hat and flit back his hair. Furthermore, this morning he removed a handkerchief from his cuff to wipe his hands after knocking a taxi driver for a loop who yelled: "Yoo hoo!" in falsetto. Moral: You can't always tell.

Homer Crox's original trick of reaching into a goldfish bowl and eating a slice of carrot which he had hidden and which he wriggled to his mouth is now featured in a half dozen vaudeville acts. The first time Crox pulled it was at a dinner party in the red plush parlor of a Missouri cross-roads home. It resulted in Courtney Ryley Cooper, another guest, being rushed all the way to Kansas City hospital to stop him from gagging. He greens under the gills now when it is mentioned.

The Stars Say —

For Saturday, Jan. 3

This day's plan of stellar activities will be one of routine matters, with but little of interest or inspire. Its pleasurable progress depends upon one's own inclination to force matters of necessary accomplishment. Nevertheless, the noteworthy should not encourage indulgence in the astral proclivity to irritability and vexatious conduct in small affairs.

Those whose birthday it is are noted by a year in which an initiative and constructive may be put to the test.

Successes give but little incentive to the ambitious. There is a slight tension to the rapid development of the continents hitherto considered backward. The eastern hemisphere is now a vexatious

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

Correct Diet—Healthy Teeth

In our childhood we were told, and perhaps for a time believed that:

"Crusts will make your hair curl. Crusts will make you strong; Crusts will cure the stomachache. If eaten right along."

Some of the present-day claims of dietitians may seem just as extravagant and far-fetched, but fortunately for us, they have a more scientific basis than the conclusions of this old nursery rhyme.

For example every day more and more evidence is being accumulated to prove that good teeth depend almost wholly on proper diet.

For many years dentists and doctors, health and school officials, have laid great emphasis on the proper cleansing of the teeth. We have been taught how and when to brush the teeth and massage the gums, what kind of a brush to use, what paste or powder to put on it, why dental floss is necessary, what mouth-wash to employ. And we have been trained to make semi-annual trips to the dentist to have him repair the damage that has taken place.

Now we are being taught that, unless the diet is correct, all the physical care that can be given the teeth will not preserve them. But, on the other hand if the diet is correct, the dentist's examination will more often than not show that all is well.

Damage to the teeth comes primarily from within. The teeth fail to form properly or their substance breaks down because of a lack of the proper food elements to build them up and make them strong and resistant.

Tests have recently been conducted at the University of Michigan to discover the effect on the teeth of eating sugar. Groups of children were carefully watched during a certain period. All of them were given an antiseptic mouth wash twice daily. Some were allowed their usual diet while the others were put on one from which sugar was practically eliminated.

At the end of the period, the teeth were examined. Two-thirds of those who had eaten sugar had developed cavities. In those who had not had sugar there was no evidence of decay.

Doubtless, it was not the sugar itself—a valuable food when properly used—that caused the decay. More likely it is because sweet food takes away the appetite for the foods necessary for tooth development.

Knowing these things, you will see why it is wise to eat sweets, especially in a concentrated form like candy only at the end of a meal. When that is done there is more likely to be a properly balanced diet, the essentials will be taken. Then the teeth will not suffer from a lack of the food elements they need.

What are these elements that take part in building the teeth? The most important ones are lime, phosphorus, and the substance known as vitamin D.

To secure these elements the diet should contain fresh fruits and vegetables, but more important than anything else it should contain a adequate amount of milk.

A quart of milk a day by itself would supply all the vitamin D needed by an adult. For babies and children it is the chief source of this important element, and should never be omitted from the diet.

RID FLAMEL SENATORS

It may be unusually exasperating for the radicals in the senate to observe on the part of the administration a determined and resolute effort to get their own congregations away from them. President Hoover quite apparently has never taken his political eyes off the oddities and curiosities which swelled his vote two years ago. These marginal vagaries may have impressed him as constituting the core of Republican strength. Greater political experience would advise him that they were entirely bagarious and useless in Republican councils. However, it seems to appear otherwise in Washington.

The administration bid for radical-dry populace evidently has provoked the radical senators into more fitful wildness. Usually they must taunt an administration for not being with them, but when they see signs of an encroachment upon their preserves they will take to the wider open places. Mr. Hoover can not keep up with them. They will always go higher and further with more reproaches because he is following them.

The ultimate test is the wearing of the radical emblem, red flannel underwear. Parlor radicals such as Pinchot and Cutting may trim it with lace, but wear it they must.

It should appear on the White House line it will only be evidence that the administration is making the last futile effort for a coalition which would blow up rather than merge.—Chicago Tribune.

AUSTIN Tex.—It is good hunting precaution to wear a red hat to guard against other hunters making a mistake. But Mrs. Raymond Thorp found it also has its drawbacks. Hunting on a ranch near here, the red hat attracted a large and angry bull. Mrs. Thorp reached a small tree ahead of the bull, but she sat there for hours until a relief party found her.

FORMER BUREAU CHIEF IS GIVEN PLACE AT O. S. U.

Dr. Arthur J. Klein To Begin His Duties Next Week

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Jan. 2.—Dr. Arthur J. Klein, former chief of the division of higher education, United States office of education, will join the Ohio State university faculty with the opening of the winter quarter next week, it was announced today. He will teach in the department of school administration, with the rank of professor.

Authority on Education
Dr. Klein is an authority upon American higher education in which he has had wide experience. He was a visiting member of the faculty here during the 1930 summer quarter. During the fall he was engaged in making educational surveys in the Pacific northwest.

Following his graduation from Wabash college in 1906, Dr. Klein studied at Union Theological Seminary and at Columbia university. In 1909 he received the bachelor of divinity degree from the former and that of Master of Arts from the latter. In 1916 Columbia conferred upon him the degree of doctor of philosophy.

Wins Captaincy
From 1909 until 1918, Dr. Klein taught successfully at New York university, the College City of New York, and Wheaton college. During the early part of the World war he was attached to the U. S. committee on public information. Later he was commissioned captain in the adjutant general's department and organized the War Department's public information service.

In 1919, he became associate director of the Division of Educational Extension in the Interior Department's Bureau of Education, now known as the U. S. Office of Education. Later he was engaged in extension and in army educational work. In 1924-25 he was staff specialist on active duty in the education and schools section of the U. S. Army general staff, with the rank of lieutenant colonel in the Officers' Reserve Corps. From 1926 until 1928 he was chief of the Division of Higher Education.

NEW YORK—Dudley Field Malone is the proud daddy of a ten pound son, the city's first baby of the year. It arrived at 12:01 a. m. by a carefully adjusted watch. Mrs. Malone, former Edna Louise Johnson, actress, is the lawyer's third wife.

THOMASTON, ME.—Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh had bought herself an island in Penobscot Bay, evidently for picnics. At least that's why summer folk own other islands near her's, which is known as Gerdon Island.

SANTA FE, N. M.—Oshorne C. Wood, son of the late Leonard Wood, is now a colonel, adjutant general of New Mexico in command of the national guard. His appointment was the first made by Gov. Seligman after taking office.

NEW YORK—Arthur Hammerstein says he has lost $1,350,000 in his last eight theatrical productions and plans to retire from the business for two years at least, perhaps permanently.

LOS ANGELES—Doug Fairbanks has left to do some hunting in Indo-China after visiting the Emperor of Japan, the King of Siam and the Maharajahs of Bhopal and Baroda.

S. Parker Gilbert, formerly in charge of reparation payments, enters the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., making 19 members in the firm.

One interested in business and profits, landing in the I. P. Morgan firm, is like Sinbad the sailor, landing in the Valley of Diamonds. To such a J. P. Morgan partner, you may apply Stevenson's lines:
Home is the sailor, home from sea,
And the hunter home from the hill.

No more worry.

Uncle Sam begins the new year up to his neck in wheat. Mr. Legge, head of the farm board, would forbid short sales, and even approve closing up the board of trade, under some conditions.

Laws cannot stop short selling. Mr. Legge well knows, any more than they can stop whiskey buying. And every grain man knows that the government, sooner or later, must sell its grain accumulation.

Our problems are trifling compared with those of Great Britain. A labor government, that was to find employment for all, has twice as many idle men on its hands as when it started, and for nine months of the fiscal year just ended has a deficit of $903,000,000—$53,000,000 more than a year ago.

The marvelous thing is that Great Britain goes placidly along, with organized labor in charge of government. What would be said here, what would be the shrieking if union labor were suddenly put in charge of the United States?

Ocean Seadromes Would Be Greatest News, Says Hawks

Flier Looks To 1931; Predicts New Coast-To-Coast Record

(By International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—The greatest news story in the air in 1931, Capt. Frank Hawks believes, would be the setting up of a line of seadromes across the southern Atlantic, a string of floating islands to provide landing and refueling points for a seaplane transoceanic service.

That would be the biggest aviation story in the world, Capt. Hawks said today.

Important To U. S.
The most important story to aviation in the United States would be for someone to traverse our continent in 10 hours, breaking Capt. Hawks' own record of 12 hours, 25 minutes, set last Aug. 6, he said.

Capt. Hawks, in an exclusive interview, revealed why he thought these two stories, if they "broke" in 1931, would be the most important in the year's history of aviation.

The famous flier spoke cautiously about his opinion of the value of spectacular jumps across the ocean in land planes. But he praised the flight of the German, Capt. Wolfgang Von Gronau, who flew from the North Sea to New York harbor in a seaplane, making six stops.

Advocates Azores Route
Trans-Atlantic passenger and mail service can be operated successfully only if seaplanes are used and fueling stations are set up in mid-ocean, Capt. Hawks felt. He advocated a line by way of the Azores, where fairer weather prevails than over the northern route. Landing floats should be set up about every 500 miles he said.

Dirigibles, said the flier, were too bulky, slow and costly. In war time they made a perfect target. Seaplanes are cheaper and faster.

Capt. Hawks' enthusiasm is for breaking trans-continental records. It is a great stimulus to air transport lines, he said, and fastens interest on American aviation. He would like to sit back and see someone else break his record. He predicted someone would bring the coast to coast time down to 11 hours in 1931, and hopes to see the trip made in 10 hours, next year or some other year.

If some flier broke his record he probably would try to set a new one, Capt. Hawks said, but the aviator who sets a 10-hour mark probably will hang up a figure that would stand for quite a while.

Dreams of New Flight
Capt. Hawks has a dream of his own for a flight that would be different than any yet tried and greater than any so far accomplished, but is not ready yet to publish the details. It would, he believes, open up an important range of activity in the air.

With a gallant gesture the genial flying captain welcomed all women to take part in developing aviation. If more women learn to fly, more women will urge men to fly, instead of holding them back, he said. The captain's own wife has been his most enthusiastic supporter through 13 years of flying.

And now, after his rise to fame as a speed breaker, what does Capt. Hawks see as the future of the airplane?

He does not see everyone flying about in his own plane, taking off from his own rooftop for the office hangar.

He thinks if there is any individual use of planes it will be on a scale comparable to the use of motorboats, generally for pleasure. There will be a great interest in high speed service over long distances, he believes.

Business leaders are confident that any change for the better in conditions will find the United States a leader of the world in the return to normal. Depressed conditions in other countries naturally have intensified domestic difficulties, but it is felt that the United States is in far better condition to take advantage of a return to normal.

Conditions during 1930 were in direct contrast with the optimistic forecasts made at the start of the year. There is a tendency now on the part of leaders to await developments in the first few months of the year before making definite predictions.

In the Rotunda of the statehouse, 7:30 p. m.—Reception for members of the Press to be given by the Franklin county Democratic committee.

Cox, Donahay to Aid
Former Governors James M. Cox of Dayton and Vic Donahay of Columbus have been selected as members of the inaugural ceremony committee by Walter F. Heer of Columbus, general chairman of the inaugural committee of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce.

Ralph W. Hoyer of Columbus will be chairman of the committee and Heer will be vice chairman.

Approving the desire of Governor-elect White that there shall be no elaborate inaugural features requiring expenditure of public funds, several Democratic organizations throughout the state have informed Heer that their county delegations will gladly contribute bands for the inaugural parade at their own expense.

REEVES-LOUX

An arch of evergreens strung with colored lights made a beautiful setting for the wedding of Miss Martha Eileen Reeves and John Hopkins Loux, well known Salem young people, at noon Thursday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Reeves, Vine avenue, Rev. C. F. Evans, pastor of the Christian church, officiated, using the ring service.

As the strains of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin, played by Miss Naomi Shinn, cousin of the bride, were heard, the bride party came into the living room.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, appeared in a creation of cream lace and sapphire blue chiffon. She carried a bouquet of Columbia roses. Miss Helen Williams, maid of honor, was dressed in brown lace over burnt orange chiffon. Her flowers were Ophelia roses. Dr. Edwin A. Coles was the best man.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to 43 friends and relatives. The tables were enhanced with a decorative motif of green and white.

The bride is a graduate of Salem High school, class of '29 and the Salem Business college. Mr. Loux was graduated from Maryland State university with the class of '28. He is an electrical engineer, employed by the Electric Furnace company.

Onion Is Cobbler's Weather Chart

(By Associated Press)

MARSHFIELD, Wis., Jan. 2.—January is going to be extremely cold, if the prediction based on Ewald Benesch's onion turns out as he expects it will. Annually, thirty minutes before the old year dies, Benesch, a cobbler, gets an onion and retires to his shop. He cuts the onion in two, examines the pieces carefully and from the condition of the layers makes his weather forecast.

Here's what he offers for 1931: January, dry, snow and extreme cold; February, dry and cold; March, extremely cold, with much snow; April, wet; May, extremely wet; June, medium; July, mostly dry; August, medium; September, October, November and December, wet.

CLEVELAND CO. TO BUILD PLANT

Firm Headed By Former Salem Man Plans Expansion

The present time is said to be without a peer in the United States.

One machine weighing 1750 tons, 115 feet long, 30 feet wide and 12 feet high, was recently installed in the Bier Hill plant of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company.

Machines of this nature made by the Yoder company are capable of forming pipe 18 to 26 inches in diameter, up to one-half inches in width of wall and will produce from 50 to 100 feet a minute.

The electrically welded type of pipe is said to be replacing to a great extent the hot lap and butt welded methods.

The Yoder company has shipped its products to Australia, Japan, Germany, China, Russia and, in fact, nearly every nation in the world.

NEW STATE CODE IN FORCE TODAY

West Virginia's $400,000
Statutes Annul Old
Measures

(By United Press)
CHARLESTON, W. VA., Jan. 2.—West Virginia's new code of Statute law—a code that cost $400,000 to revise and draft—became effective today.

The code was adopted by the 1929 legislature. It almost completely revised old statutes and resulted in the killing of hundreds of laws that were considered antiquated or inadequate to cope with present day needs.

The work was begun by three commissioners appointed by former Governor E. F. Morgan. The commission submitted its report in 1927 and two years later a joint legislative committee, aided by the state bar association, completed the final draft.

Much controversy developed over the right of the legislative committee to incorporate new laws or alter redrafted statutes. There was much editorial comment and legislative debate. It is believed that many additional changes will be recommended at the forthcoming session of the legislature.

Jurists and lawyers are of the opinion that many years will elapse before the public is entirely informed on the new statutes.

Heaviness Of Utility And Specialty Shares
Prompts Drop

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Heaviness of utility and specialty shares that had risen sharply in Wednesday's rally turned the stock market lower today after a firm opening. Trading, however, was the duller of the week.

Detroit Edison lost 7 points of the previous session's 19-point advance, while Allied Chemical and American Water Works dropped 5. Coca Cola and American Water Works 4, and Western Union and Case 3. Most of the prominent industrial shares were off at least a point. American Telephone, Goodyear Rubber, Fox, Eastman Kodak, Du Pont Crucible Steel and American Can sagged 2 to 2 3/4.

Call money renewed at 3 per cent, but went down to 2 before noon.

Man Of Mystery Dispenses Charity And Asks No Glory

New Yorker, Who Gives To Poor, Takes Name
Of "Mr. Glad"

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—He is a man of mystery, a man of charity without glory, once a down-and-out.

Mr. Glad is the name he uses. He passes out sandwiches and coffee to the unemployed. He passes out nickels that they may have confidence in their unceasing search for work. He advertises for people to send him old gloves at 345 Broadway that he may pass them to warm the hands of the unfortunate.

Name Doesn't Matter
Who is he? The Broadway address is just a place where he calls for his mail.

"I really don't matter whether my name is Jones, Cohen, Murphy or Smith, or whether I am in the insurance business, or dry-goods, or what-not," is his answer, by letter, to a request for an interview.

"I'm just an ordinary business man, who does not want his identity arrest on a charge of drunkenness. The coroner said death was due to acute dilation of the heart.

Automobile accidents claimed the lives of Thomas Hudson, 70, and Miss Mary Pfeiffer, 5, in Cincinnati.

Injuries received when he was struck by a truck claimed the life of Hiram L. Shaw, 51, at Springfield.

Auto Fumes Are Fatal
Constantine Robaskevich, 16, of Toledo, was killed by carbon monoxide fumes while trying to start his father's car.

At Cleveland Joseph McGoogan Jr., 13, was killed when he fell down an elevator shaft.

Scores of accidents and fires were reported throughout the state.

The family of Howard Cales of Portsmouth, consisting of 12 members, narrowly escaped death when fire destroyed their home. Mr. and Mrs. Cales and one child were burned seriously, but were expected to recover.

Doris, Peterson, 4, Cincinnati, was killed when her father's automobile collided with another machine. The child's neck was broken.

Robert Curtis, 10, was killed at Akron when his sled crashed into a tree.

Frank Peugner, 433, of East Massillon, was found dead in an Akron barber shop. Alcoholism was blamed.

Roy Kirtland, 34, conductor for the Toledo Terminal railroad, was found dead in his garage. Carbon monoxide fumes were responsible.

Salesman Arrested

CINCINNATI, Jan. 2.—Lawrence Steman, Royal Jeweler, Inc., salesman, reported to police yesterday that $2,938 in jewelry had been stolen from his home. Investigating officers arrested Steman and three other men when the officers found, they said, part of the jewels in possession of those held.

Noted Pastor Dies

READJUSTMENT TO BRING BACK BETTER TIMES

Psychologist Of Drake University Makes Unemployment Survey

(By United Press)

DES MOINES, Jan. 2.—Changes in the fundamental principles of modern economics are now in progress and prosperity will ride back to the world on the wings of readjustment, in the opinion of Dr. E. G. Lockhart, professor of psychology at Drake university.

Dr. Lockhart, who recently completed a survey of unemployment conditions in Chicago, believes that depression is grounded deeper than mere psychology of the masses. It is more "than a matter of cycles," he said in an interview. "It is the climax of a change in our economic structure that has been in progress since machinery began to take the place of men and animals. 'Considering horses alone, there has been a reduction of approximately 16 million in the number of horses in the United States in the past decade. The decrease in itself is sufficient to account for much of the surplus agricultural products and with disappearance of grain-eating horses have come big oil-burning automobiles and tractors that result in increased production and consequent oversupply of farm products.

"Human labor on the routine level seems doomed to share the fate of the horse."

The jobs held by the laboring classes in many cases have fallen before the advance of machinery, Dr. Lockhart said, and a readjustment has not been completed to provide new work.

"It is the man with a routine job and little education who is suffering," said Dr. Lockhart. "In my survey of more than 2,000 jobless men in Chicago I found they generally were without education and of low intelligence."

To emphasize his contention that machinery largely is to blame for present unemployment, Lockhart made public the results of a survey conducted by him among Iowa farmers.

"Approximately 90 per cent of those interviewed," he said, "stated their plan for the future is to displace farm help with machinery."

BANK IS READY NOW TO REPEL BANDIT RAIDS

Latest Protective Devices Are Installed At Toledo

(By Associated Press)
TOLEDO, Jan. 2.—Mr. bank bandit, 1931 model, will have a decided shock if he tries to rob the Point Place State Bank here.
New bullet proof glass has been installed about the cashier's cage. In a recent test, in which more than twelve shots were fired from a 38 calibre revolver (sometimes carried by the robbers in case persuasion is necessary in making a living), and a 45 calibre machine gun (the very latest thing for ambulators on the outside of the cages), none of the bullets were able to penetrate the glass. The demonstration was held in a vacant lot with more than 100 depositors watching anxiously.
In addition to the glass, a metal amplifier and raised and lowered paying slots, have been provided for the patrons. No space through which a gun might be pointed has been left open.
A gun port has been placed in each window, so the cashier may fire from within. This gives him the potentialities of a one man battery. The wire netting placed above the cage serves the double function of preventing an intruder from climbing over the cage and firing from above.
The bullet-proof glass, one and one-eighth inches thick, consists of three layers of glass, with two layers of celluloid between. The celluloid spreads the area impact when a bullet strikes the glass diminishing the force of the bullet.

MOVIES

"THE SQUEALER"
At The Grand
Dramatic intensity, appealing human interest and interesting insight into the methods employed by up-to-date bootleggers are the dominant notes in "The Squealer," which opened at the Grand Theatre last night. Though silhouetted against the underworld background, the story is novel in theme and gets away from the stereotyped crook formula that has become too familiar to be diverting.
Charley Hart—the master bootlegger who is the central figure of the plot—successfully conceals the nature of his true calling by posing as a prosperous real estate man. Hart isn't a crook at heart—his chief interest in the law-breaking game is to make a fortune and shower it upon his wife Margaret and his little son—Bunny. When he is satisfied with his haul he expects to step out—but this isn't as easy as he had anticipated. For in his efforts to protect himself he has found it necessary to build up a gigantic underworld machine. How he himself, is at last caught in the wheels of this death-dealing device and sacrificed on the altar of his own wrongdoing, supplies the rest of the action for this whirlwind drama.
Holt is excellent and is supported convincingly by Davey "Sonny Boy" Lee and Dorothy Revier.

"WAR NURSE"
At The State
Mayer's version of the war as seen through a woman's eye, opened its engagement at the State last night. Starring Robert Montgomery, Anita Page, John Walker, and Robert Ames, it is an entirely different type of a war picture.
It is a story of four young girls who find themselves in the midst of the horrors of war, the characters of those who fight it and their experiences.
Miss Walker and Montgomery furnish the romance in which proves to be an entertaining picture.

"SHADOW RANCH"
At The Royal
Riding, shooting, bull-dogging and other typical things of the West hold sway in "Shadow Ranch," the current Columbia all-talking picture featuring Buck Jones at the Royal Theatre.
Buck Jones, in the role of Sam Baldwin, a roving cow-puncher, of course is the central figure. The locale of the picture is a small cattle town near the Mexican border, into which Sam Baldwin comes in response to a letter from an old pal. He arrives to find his friend has been murdered and in making known his vow of vengeance he finds himself involved in a feud with the established "boss" of the town.

SCIENCE QUERY PUTS AVIATION OUT IN FRONT

Babe Ruth, Cowboys And Detectives Take Back Seats

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 2.—Lindbergh and the sciences have captured the ambition of midwestern American boys. Gone to a backseat, at least when choosing careers, is the big fascination of Babe Ruth, cowboys and detectives.

Girls are not so certain about what they want. It appears that they would like best to become typists, but really expect to be housewives and do not rate movie careers as so hot.

26,000 Queried
Twenty-six thousand boys and girls of Kansas City and Topeka answered the questions upon which these findings were based as reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science today by Prof. Harvey C. Lehman, of Ohio University, Athens, Ohio. The sexes were evenly divided and the ages of all ranged from 8½ to 18½.

They were asked both what they liked best and what they were willing to do, the latter seemingly developing their idea of duty or reality.

The boys' ranking of willingness were aviation first, and then the three applied sciences, civil engineering, architecture and electrical engineering. In the also ran were all the old favorites, cowboy being fifth, the Babe Ruths tenth, Casey Joneses thirteenth and detectives twenty-sixth.

Aviation at Top
Aviation stayed even more unanimously at the top when only likes were consulted. But these boys threw out some of the science substituting the law and cowboy along with civil engineering in the first four places.

The girls ranked typist first when expressing their likes, but were not as unanimous as the boys. Housewife came second, nurse third and movie actress fourth.

But when asked what they were willing to do, housewife moved to the top and typist dropped to second place. Movie actress went down to rank thirteenth and nurse eleventh.

DETECTIVE DIES IN PARKED CAR

Florida Officer Fatally Wounded As Volley Is Fired

(By Associated Press)
TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 2.—A volley of pistol shots killed John E. Jones, 52-year-old city detective, last night as he sat in a parked motor car in the outskirts of the city with Mrs. Hattie L. Steward, widow of the former president of the Steward-Mellon tile company of Tampa. Mrs. Steward said her companion was killed by a man who talked like a woman. The assailant, she related, approached the car, said, "now I've got you where I want you," and began firing through the door of the closed automobile next to which Jones was sitting.

She was detained for further questioning.

The sheriff said the door glass broke on the running board of the motor car and expressed the opinion that if the shots had been fired from the outside the glass would have broken inside the automobile. Mrs. Steward said she didn't understand that circumstance.

Jones and Mrs. Steward had been sitting in the car about 20 minutes before the assailant appeared, she said. At least four shots took effect in Jones and Mrs. Steward said "there must have been half a dozen fired."

She said she called for help and fired the officer's gun in the air without success and then walked four miles to a telephone and summoned police.

Salem High Cagers Meet Alliance In Big Ten Game Tonight

ALUMNI TEAM WINS 37-34 VICTORY OVER RED AND BLACK FIVE

THE DAY In Sports

SAXONS PLAY BASKETBALL
ALUMNI WIN DECISION
YOST PICKS GRID STARS
NOTES CHANGES IN GAME

The Penn-Ohio German basketball league starts its fourth annual season Saturday, January 10, with the Salem Saxons clashing with the strong Alliance league member team at the Memorial building. Cleveland West meets Homestead, Pa., at Homestead while Cleveland East will not play, only five teams being entered in the circuit this year.

The Saxon league has proved popular in the last three years of its organization, games involving the Salem team drawing capacity crowds to the Memorial gymnasium. The Salem combine has annexed two championships out of the three campaigns and has strengthened its team considerably this season in hopes of winning the title a third time and gaining permanent possession of the league trophy.

Salem High alumni cagers proved too strong for Coach Floyd Stone's scholastics in a thrilling encounter Wednesday night but it was some time after the game was played before anyone was certain what the correct score of the contest was. Wilford Smith, official scorer at the game, announced the result to favor the scholastics by a 34-33 score and it stood at that until a check revealed that the alumni had won, 37-34.

Plenty of Salem fans are going to witness the Red and Black's second Big Ten league game tonight with Alliance. The latter, an all-veteran combination, is favored to trim the Stonemen but a hard-fought battle is anticipated. Saturday night more than 1,000 fans are expected at the three games involving the Salem High team against their traditional county rival, East Liverpool.

Class B games, postponed from Wednesday night, will be played at the Memorial building gym tonight.

Basketball schedules of three Salem High teams are being distributed by Faculty Manager Harold Williams at home games here. The schedules are arranged with completeness and include all contests slated for the reserve and varsity boys' teams and Coach Esther Peterson's girls' combine. The athletic council, composed of the following, is also listed:

W. J. Springer, principal; R. W. Hilgendorf, treasurer; Harold M. Williams, faculty manager; Floyd W. Stone, coach; Frank P. Lewis, assistant coach; Esther Peterson, girls' athletic coach; Wilford Smith, student manager; Tom Snyder and Joe Bush, assistant managers.

Fielding H. Yost of the University of Michigan, one of America's oldest and most famous football coaches has selected the six greatest football players he ever saw. There may have been stars who shone just as brightly, but the six named herewith were the best he ever laid eyes on himself.

1—Jim Thorpe, the immortal halfback of the Carlisle Indians.
2—"Pudge" Heffelfinger, Yale guard; the first man, according to Yost, to come out from guard position to run interference.

3—Benny Oosterbaan of Michigan, a great end.

4—Benny Friedman of Michigan, quarterback.

5—Willie Heston of Michigan, halfback.

6—"Germany" Schulz, big Michigan center.

Yost, who was a delegate to the 25th annual convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, coached football at Ohio Wesleyan back in 1897.

It will be noted that Yost picks four Michigan men. That is natural enough because he has been looking at Michigan players for so many years. He characterized Friedman as one of the finest forward pass throwers the game has seen and Oosterbaan one of the greatest receivers of passes. He said Heston was the back who scored 100 points for Michigan in four years and, as for Schulz, he never saw "his equal at center."

Asked what were the six best teams he ever saw, Yost pondered for a minute or two and said: "Well, maybe I haven't my dates exactly right. But here they are:

That Pennsylvania team of 1907 on which Hollenback played; that Yale team of 1908 that had Tom Shevlin on it; The Michigan team of 1901 that scored 550 points to 0 for the opposition; the Michigan team of 1923 that won the Western conference title chiefly through the work of Oosterbaan and Friedman; the Harvard team of 1913 that boasted Brickley, Bradley and hardwick and the Notre Dame team of 1923—the only Notre Dame team I ever saw in action."

"Today the institutional contacts between the various colleges of the country are on a better and more friendly basis than ever before," Yost said. "Thirty years ago the coaches hardly spoke to each other."

Scholastics Outplayed By Ex-High Cage Stars In Sensational Battle

A combination of ex-high cage stars over-powered the Red and Black of Salem High to win a disappointing 37-34 decision in a sensational court duel at the high school gym here New Year's eve.

Outplayed by the alumni team through the greater part of the contest, the scholastics staged a whirlwind comeback in the final four minutes of play to advance within three points of a tie contest. Inability to register shots kept the ex-high lads' score down in the first half but a basket-making spree in the third period gave them a seven-point lead as the fourth quarter opened.

The ex-highs stepped into the lead from the start of the contest but the Quakers forged ahead as the first period ended with the score 10-9. The alumni again climbed to the front only to fall behind as the half closed with the score 20-20 against them. The former scholastic stars held a decided advantage in floor play during the first half but were unable to score consistently.

With Bob Cope and Ed. Sidinger starring the alumni, with the opening whistle of the third quarter, started an offensive onslaught that overwhelmed the Stonemen. The ex-highs ran their total to 29 before the high lads broke into the scoring in this period. Cope caging two under-basket tip shots while Sidinger and Allen each registered from long distance.

Early, Sartick Disqualified
Norman Early and Paul Sartick were disqualified from further participation in the contest in the fourth period, because of four personal fouls, but in face of this handicap, and aided by untimely substitutions on the ex-high team, the Quakers were principals in a nerve-rattling comeback that rapidly increased their score. The surplus of points accumulated by the alumni regulars was too great, however, and the final whistle shrieked as William (Bill) Smith caged a short shot for the scholastics.

It was probably the high school team's worst game of the season, the defeat being entirely unexpected because of the lack of pre-game organization of the alumni players. This latter combination, however, composed of the best of high performers in past three seasons, performed in great style and is capable of trimming the majority of scholastic cage quintets, the setback being no indication of any weakness in the Stonemen's make-up.

The press, too, has been remarkable. You could not tell from the stories in the Columbus papers which eleven they were supporting. They are eminently fair. SOUTH WINS IN COAST CONTEST

Alabama Forward Passes Overwhelm Washington State, 24-0

(By Associated Press)
PASADENA, CAL., Jan. 2.—Southern football stood at a new high water mark today, swept there by Alabama's tidal wave which yesterday swamped Washington State, 24 to 0.

One large quarter, featured by three brilliant plays, and the Crimson Tide surged to a record of two victories and a tie for the last six years of the Rose Tournament. Alabama's sixteenth year old classic here.

The triumph left the South with three wins and no defeats, while in the previous ten years the East and Southwest managed to pull out with one victory apiece against Pacific Coast opponents.

Alabama's tide broke loose in the second period and with a couple of long passes and a 41-yard run burst through the dike of the Cougar defense, with apparent ease for three touchdowns and a game.

Quakers Seek Revenge For Two Defeats From Stark Team Last Year

Identically the same combination which last season swept Alliance High to a decisive 27-17 victory over Salem High's 1929-30 cage quintet will represent the Stark county school in a battle scheduled against Coach Floyd Stone's hardwood gladiators at the Barnes auditorium in Alliance tonight. Composed entirely of veterans who to date have won four straight games, Alliance is an odds-on favorite, on paper, to take their third straight victory over Salem basketweavers.

The Stark countians last year handed the Stonemen two straight setbacks by scores of 24-17 and 26-17. This season Coach George Wilcoxon has available the same five lads who started the latter contest for tonight's game, using Abaffy and Gaimor at forwards; Windland at center; and, McCarty and A. Quick at guards.

Alliance Seeks Title
Alliance is touted as one of the main contenders for the Northeastern Ohio Big Ten league championship.

Ship being the only school in the circuit to have an all-veteran team back. The Salem fray marks the first league battle for the Wilcoxon lads, it being the Stonemen's second. At the present time the Quakers are tied with Wooster and Ravenna for the league leadership, each having won one game with no defeats.

Alliance will play Akron North at Akron Saturday night, this being the last game in which Coach Wilcoxon will be in charge of the Red and Blue cage destinies this season. His assistant, Leland Whitacre, will be in charge the remainder of the campaign while Wilcoxon continues his studies in medicine at at eastern college.

The Quakers will be seeking revenge for the two setbacks suffered from Wilcoxon's lads last season and have a great opportunity for annexing a victory tonight. Stone's lads have shown to advantage in all three games played this season, even when sustaining defeat on two occasions. A decision over the Stark countians will advance the Quakers into high rating in district cage competition.

Reserves Play Prelim
The games will be played at the Barnes auditorium with Salem and Alliance reserves clashing in the preliminary.

Stone will probably start Bill Smith and Ed Beck at forwards; Early at center, with Sartick and French guards. Tom Nedelka who promises to develop into a great floor star and an accurate shot, may start at a forward with Smith. Both forward combinations, Smith and Beck or Smith and Nedelka have worked to advantage in past games.

The advantage Alliance has in experience is expected to prove a handicap to the Stonemen who thus far have shown need of a speedier offense while the defense is not all that could be desired at times.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

By Wanda Barton

Do Their Toys Swarm Over The Home?

"Fingerprints along the wall tell tales streaks upon the door" wrote Eugene Field sentimentalizing charmingly over little Pitypa and Tipptytoe. That was long ago in the days of roomy cottages and low rents, when almost every child had plenty of outdoor space for play right in his own backyard. But alas, apartment house living of today cuts down the child's play space too and when, as is usually the case a family lives in a few rooms instead of a whole house, everybody's liberty is a bit cramped. The modern mother can't complain, "Isn't he cute?" when junior attempts an impressive ride into the living room on his new bicycle. Indeed the comment most valued by the parent of today is, "Why you wouldn't know there were children in the house if you didn't see them." Toys swarming all over the place are not necessarily a sign of parental devotion or child's enjoyment, but lack of discipline.

As a matter of fact most children prefer a place of their very own no matter how small, to a general participation in the house as a whole. A small closet for "my very own toys," and low bookshelves to house all kinds of infantile property are more pleasing to the small person and also inculcate a few desirable habits. The child with a sense of property can also be trained to take care of it, to feel responsible for it, and to respect the articles belonging to the grown-ups. The little girl who won't permit rough handling of her books and dolls can readily understand why she mustn't smear her adorable fingermarks on mother's piano.

Right furnishings help a lot in encouraging a child to maintain a place for everything. Deep, roomy bookshelves, minus doors, are excellent for the tidy arrangement of all sorts and sizes of toys. The toy table with a roomy drawer will develop the habit of putting unfinished work neatly out of sight when temporarily suspended.

Care of the Mirror

Janet frowned at her reflection in her new mirror, and pulled off her hat with a vicious jerk. "Suppose I ought to put on a bit more make-up—don't know why I look such a fright today," she pouted. But her friend, glancing at Janet and the mirror, smiled sympathetically. "It's funny—but you really don't look like that. Something is wrong with your mirror. Just look at yourself in your vanity, and see the difference."

When choosing a mirror the buyer shouldn't look at her own reflection, but at the saleswoman to step before the glass. Then make comparison between real life and reflection. Some mirrors perform strange tricks. They may cast a pale yellow streak over a naturally creamy skin or do funny things to the skin, and the eyes and even elongate or distend the features a trifle. And what a difference that trifle makes. There are all sorts of reasons for these phenomena, but, fortunately, the buyer doesn't have to study the mechanics of mirror making to choose a good mirror. All that's necessary is a simple test. Soo how it reflects by comparison on the spot. The mirror that casts a clear and accurate reflection is obviously a desirable one. A mirror should be hung so that a good light strikes it from one or both sides. It should not be hung so that sunlight blazes on the front, nor should it be exposed to any other kind of excessive heat, either natural or steam. It should be placed where it will be in an even temperature, cold being preferable to heat. Mirrors can be kept sparkling by cleaning with one of the commercial pastes or cakes. Rub on the mirror, let it dry, then wipe off with soft cloth. A final light rub with a little cloth moistened slightly in alcohol will make it sparkle.

Household Hint

The can of cleanser that is such a necessary part of the kitchen equipment has a bad habit of leaving a rust mark on the shelf where it resides. A simple little stand may be made for the can by merely binding together a few canning-jar rubbers. A string may be used or they may be glued.
